The BIG GREEN Legacy

Lesson Two Middle/High School

- To understand why it is important to share your voice in the Big Green Legacy Pulse.
- To understand how to play the Big Green Legacy Pulse

Teacher's Guide.

In this lesson we'll explore the importance of sharing our voice when it comes to the climate and sustainability education we learn about in school. We will discuss why it is important to share your views via a survey - the "BIG GREEN Legacy Pulse" - and how this information will be used to make climate education better for everyone. Finally, we will become 'champions of the BIG GREEN Legacy Pulse' by engaging in a creative activity to encourage others to respond to the survey.

The screenshot shows a digital interface for 'The BIG GREEN Legacy'. It features a large green rectangular area on the left. To its right is a white panel with the heading 'Select all that apply' and the question 'How do you learn about climate change or the environment?'. Below the question are four selectable options, each with a grey box: 'Through my teachers in lessons and courses at school/university', 'Through school assemblies', 'Through clubs and extracurricular climate action projects based at my school or university', and 'Other (please specify)'. The 'Other' option is highlighted with a small orange icon. At the bottom of the interface are two buttons: a green one with a left arrow and a yellow one with a right arrow.

1. Choose a given answer.

2. Choose "other" to write your own answer in the box.
